

Leo Cloud Orchestrator in the USA now

Imperial Cloud Technologies, which was established to distribute the next generation cloud and security technologies in the United States, started to offer the LeoCo cloud management solution, for which it obtained the distributorship rights, in the United States.

This is the first Turkish made software solution in cloud management and orchestration started to sale in the United States of America.

The CEO of Leo CO company Serkan Koçak says Leo Cloud Orchestrator is game changer solution in this market.

One of the biggest problems in the industry today is the difficulty of managing virtualization infrastructure. If we were to open this issue, it was to manage different infrastructure layers with different automation tools by connecting different data centers with multiple management screens and to continue the operation in a big mess.

The most painful problems were the enormous costs, using different automation of network and security solutions and acquiring different expertise.

We have developed a solution to solve them by using our 15 years of experience in our own service network. Serious large organizations in Turkey have now started to switch to Leo's new smart and talented management solution.

Leo can fulfill both enterprise and hosting providers' needs.

Even if you are a Cloud provider, Leo can automatically manage your direct sales processes and support processes so that you focus on your service quality, sales, and marketing activities. Your system admins are no longer support staff for your customers but real engineers developing products and services.

Did you see the light?

We believe we will be successful in USA market with our Leo.
